Nationalist comment

WHAT WE THINK

on the month's news

Those whom the gods wish to destroy...

Were one of our ancestors to discover the secret of reincarnation and return to Britain in the Summer of 1986, he would surely come to the conclusion that he was beholding a nation that had gone completely stark-raving mad.

Dominating the headlines of TV news bulletins evening after evening has been a mounting frenzy of condemnation of what is happening in South Africa. In chorus with this, we have been treated to a daily ritual squawking by members of parliament of every party political stripe, backed up by the familiar cavalcade of dotty clerics, headed by no less an eminence than the Archbishop of Canterbury himself, letting forth a noise that might be likened to that of excited hens on discovery of a fox on the perimeter of the poultry yard. Meanwhile, not to be outdone in this contest of hysterics, our glorious 'free press' has added its voice loudly and stridently to the non-stop daily hymn of outrage. Beside all this rising crescendo of moral passion over events at the other end of the earth, concern for the problems of Britain itself, worse though they are now than at almost any stage of our history, seems reduced to a whimper.

And who in South Africa are the targets of this barrage of opprobrium? The rampaging, murdering, looting mobs running amok in the black townships? The car-bombers, who joy in blowing innocent people to bits in the manner of some dusky reproduction of the IRA? The sadistic torturer-killers who 'punish' their recalcitrant compatriots by fixing rubber tyres around their necks and then setting light to them? Oh no! The big bad wolves of the whole affair are the white South African authorities who decline to sit back in tolerant stupor in the face of this mayhem but actually dare to use the force of the law to stop it! To the talking classes of Britain, as N.A. Hunt has succinctly called them, no more shocking act could be imagined. Accustomed as we are, when black insurrection breaks out in London or Liverpool, to leave law-abiding folk to the mercies of the mobs while politicians and police chiefs play the game of 'community relations', we simply cannot comprehend a nation which, when confronted by similar conditions, regards the restoration of order as its top priority and deploys its security forces in a manner realistically directed to that purpose.

To minds thoroughly saturated in 'liberal' doctrine, no more abhorrent spectre could exist on this earth than a people faced with national extinction actually demonstrating the will to resist those who would extinguish them — always providing that those with this will are European and white and that the threat to their survival comes from savages; were these circumstances reversed, those defending the status-quo would of course become the heroes of the moment and those challenging it the personification of villainy.

Thus when half a century ago Selassie's Ethiopia was threatened with a take-over by Italians, the conscience of mankind was found to be screaming for sanctions, not against the established regime in that country, but against its would-be usurpers.

It is a strange irony that that very state which these people were then so passionately keen to save has today become the world's No. 1 cripple, with that same conscience of mankind proclaiming that it is our solemn duty to dig deep into our pockets in order to feed its starving millions. Side by side with the pictures of South African black townships on our TV screens every evening are heart-rending filmshots of wretched human skeletons at the other end of the African Continent, either dead or dying as a result of living under the very type of backward, incompetent and corrupt government which everyone wants to see installed in South Africa as soon as possible, so that, presumably, ten or twenty years hence we will be seeing the likes of Bob Geldof swear and curse at us for our lack of generosity towards the hungry and disease-ridden natives of what was once South Africa. This is of course the liberal-progressive formula for saving the world: Work, scheme, agitate and, where necessary, kill to undermine efficient and stable government in a country — see its inhabitants reduced as a result to famine and misery — then blame all the world for that misery and agitate with equal vehemence for everyone to come and rescue the afflicted country from the mess that has been created!

MOB RULE IN SOUTH AFRICA

Black terrorists about to murder one of their own people by the burning 'necklace' method. 'Liberal opinion' in Britain seems strangely mute concerning this type of atrocity

Even if we accept as representative the TV pictures of the black townships of South Africa and draw the intended conclusion that they are shabby, run-down places where living standards are much lower than in the smart white suburbs of Johannesburg, Durban and Cape Town, it does not alter the fact that by comparison with the rest of Africa generally, and countries like Ethiopia particularly, they are palaces of luxury. The people for the most part get enough to eat. A large number of them own motor cars (more in fact than the rest of Black Africa put together). They have access to some of the world's best medical services, not anywhere near paid for by their own contributions but heavily subsidised by the hated Whites. To any rational mind, those people who are loudest in their professed commitment to Black African welfare would be thankful for the living conditions enjoyed by their pets in South Africa when it is considered what those conditions would be if white rule in that country were overthrown. But of course we are living in an age in which rational minds do not hold sway but in which lunacy has taken over.

With this lunacy is of course much of the characteristic liberal hypocrisy and humbug. No-one can tell us that the brains of today's opinion-leaders have been so totally disorientated that their bearers are entirely unaware of the consequences of the policies they are shouting for. Much stronger than any genuine feeling for the Black Man, whatever the measure of that, is the desire to fall into line and conform with the fashionable ethics of the times. Such moments of history as this provide the perfect scene for every little exhibitionist, self-advertiser and place-seeker to queue to mount the public stage to parade his shallow credentials in front of the crazed multitude behind which lurk the sinister arbiters of power.

We saw them all busy in Britain during the past month, yapping and gesticulating to the cameras in a continuous procession of decadence as they mouthed their well rehearsed clichés and diatribes against the South African Government but never against the blood-crazed sub-humans with their bombs, their machetes and their burning 'necklaces' bent on anarchy and terror. Indeed this revolting exhibition told us much more about the state of our own country than it did about the one against which all its idiot frothings were directed.

One of the most revealing aspects of the whole business was the argument over sanctions. Broadly speaking, the centre and left of British politics were all for them, while the Tories, with some dissenting voices, were against. Why against? On the very reasonable and sensible, to say nothing of the natural, grounds that the South African Whites are our own kinfolk — a million or so of them being of British stock and the remainder belonging to a related European civilisation and culture — and that therefore it should be our most fundamental instinct to be on their side? Or on the equally reasonable and sensible grounds that the alternative to white government in South Africa would be misery and chaos? Oh no, perish the thought! Sanctions should not be applied, or alternatively they should be applied only in very limited form, in the first place because the Blacks in South Africa would suffer from them, and in the second place because they would have no effect whatever in inducing the changes in South Africa "that we all want to see"!

Never was there a more perfect illustration of the truth that in contemporary British politics the differences between the contending parties are only superficial, and that over the basic essentials they think and feel as one. All are united in their wish to see the White Man go down in South Africa; the only dispute between them is over the matter of how that should be achieved! How rotted and sick the political climate has become in this country when that represents the dividing line in the big debate!

But of course there is humbug and hypocrisy here also, interlarded with a plentiful dose of cowardice. Some of the public figures giving lip service to the Tory line about sanctions harming the Blacks and having no effect on the South African Government do not really believe at heart in the nonsense they are spouting. It is just their way of camouflaging their basically pro-South African sentiments in rhetoric suitable to the climate of the times, in which an honest and sensible statement on matters touching upon race is the surest way to the termination of a political career. Good causes as well as bad ones have to be dressed in the finery of lies and cant if they are to attain the slightest chance of acceptability.

BISHOP Leading
the

Not the least ludicrous feature of the affair is the introduction into it of a new argument in favour of a firmer anti-South African position, namely that if such a position is not adopted by Britain it will lead to the break-up of the Commonwealth!

It is truly touching to hear politicians who for the past two decades have been writing off the Commonwealth and pursuing policies guaranteed to result in its disintegration now at a late stage of their careers discover that the Commonwealth is worth preserving! Of course it is the old liberal trick of standing an argument on its head. As long as the Commonwealth represented a community of kindred white peoples mainly of British stock who could, if bound closely together, be a tremendous source of strength to Britain and to each other, that Commonwealth had to be opposed and every development conducive to its break up, such as, particularly, British membership of the EEC, actively encouraged. But when, on the other hand, the evocation of 'Commonwealth' becomes convenient as a weapon with which to beat the white people of Britain into grovelling like whipped curs before the raucous demands of politicians in the West Indies, Asia and Africa, it suddenly is found to have value after all, and we are urged to ensure its preservation!

Another angle to the blatant hypocrisy of the anti-South African campaign is the phoney indignation being shown by media pundits at the restrictions on news reports and filming of the South African troubles recently imposed by the South African Government. Those very same media pundits have for years been more than willing parties to many news 'cover-ups' concerning racial disturbances in Britain, as well as facts of immigrant crime in this country, and an edict issued by the bosses of the National Union of Journalists a few years ago impressed upon members of that body that they should not report the activities of patriotic organisations unless these activities were attended by some unpleasant feature, such as violence, which would enable the publicity surrounding them to contain an unfavourable note. Now these seasoned experts in the art of censorship are complaining about — censorship! Their gall is incredible.

No-one with healthy instincts, and with two wits to rub together, could, while witnessing the current agitation by politicians and media against South Africa, fail to recognise the symptoms of a deadly disease of the national spirit in this country: a disease that contains in itself much of the elements of madness but can also be seen not to be lacking in method. The method is that of truly satanic forces that have gripped hold of the British people and control them as if they were puppets. It was those very same forces that a few years ago destroyed White Rhodesia. They now concentrate all their organised venom on that country's southern neighbour. If they succeed in this quest, they will have reduced the whole African Continent to chaos. But they will not stop there. As energetically as they pursue their war against that outpost of civilisation, they are working to destroy Britain itself. This is why British people cannot afford to shrug their shoulders and view what is being done to South Africa with detachment. The struggle of the South African Whites for survival is our struggle too. And it may be said with equal emphasis that their enemy is our enemy.

Untidy Britain: Premier sees the light!

So it took a visit to Israel to awaken Mrs. Thatcher to the fact that Britain is a scruffy, untidy country badly in need of a clean up. Well well! We wonder where the Prime Minister has been all this time. The fact of our own country's untidiness, particularly in the larger cities, has been obvious to most of us for many years. Why this sudden conversion of Mrs. T to something she should have been well aware of a long time ago?

And what on earth induced the good lady to cite Israel as a contrast in this respect? Surely Maggie has been about most of the cities of Europe, particularly those of Germany, the Low Countries, Scandinavia, Austria and Switzerland, and has seen the immeasurably higher standards of tidiness and cleanliness that prevail there by comparison with the UK. Why then did she not, on return home from one of her trips to these places, remark on the contrast?

Years ago the wife of this Editor was touring the Middle East and happened to include Israel in her itinerary. She has always recalled it as a scruffy, dirty slum. Some miraculous transformation must have occurred there since that time to have induced our Prime Minister to be struck with how clean and smart the country looked.

But perhaps Mrs. Thatcher has not really failed to note the vastly superior standards of tidiness in most European cities. Perhaps it just is that she simply cannot resist the opportunity to say flattering things about the Jews, even if they happen not to be justified.

The Iron Lady has now appointed a 'clean-up-Britain' supremo in tycoon whizz kid Richard Branson, who, it is reported, will be organising working parties to tackle dirt and litter in our public places. Ah well, better late than never. But this is only getting at half of the problem. The other half, and perhaps the most important half, lies in the sloppy, undisciplined attitudes of a large portion of the British people, who take such little pride in their neighbourhoods that they chuck litter about them as naturally as they breathe. You only have to stand in a main street for a few minutes and you will see a dozen examples of this before your very eyes. Until these attitudes are changed, we fear that Mr. Branson is going to be fighting a losing battle.

IF I SHOULD GO TO JAIL...

A special message from THE EDITOR

ON THE 7th OF THIS MONTH, along with my colleague John Morse, I am due to appear at Southwark Crown Court on charges of having 'conspired' to publish written material "liable to stir up hatred against racial groups, namely coloured people, Asians and Jews, in Great Britain."

Mr. Morse and I shall plead not-guilty to this charge. At the same time we shall conduct a vigorous and uncompromising defence of what we have written and published on the grounds that this material relates to matters of vital public interest which should be known and freely and openly discussed.

What our fate will be is something impossible to predict as these words are written. However, we cannot exclude from our minds the possibility that one or both of us may be given a term of imprisonment and thus removed from the scene of political activity for a while.

I am now in the process of making contingency plans to meet such a situation. Our party, the British National Party, will of course continue to operate as normal under alternative leadership, the details of this being found elsewhere in this issue. At the same time I have to inform readers of Spearhead that it would, in the case of my imprisonment, not be possible to continue publishing the magazine, as no person would be available who could perform all the duties therein involved, which include not only editorial duties but also numerous other duties on the production side. The keeping of Spearhead going is a semi-full-time occupation. Quite apart from the question of the capability and training needed for such a task, there is also the question of the time that needs to be given to it. No editor needing to keep going a normal outside job, and therefore having to confine his work on the magazine to evenings and weekends, could succeed in bringing it out regularly, whatever his capabilities.

It would therefore be necessary to suspend publication of the magazine if I should go to jail and for as long as I remain in jail.

JOHN MORSE

In this event all subscribers who stand in credit to receive forthcoming issues will of course receive those issues just as soon as it is possible for us to resume publication. Everyone, in other words, will duly receive the copies they have paid for — though later than would be desired. Those sending money to the magazine, whether owing for copies received on credit or as donations, will be able to continue doing so, as arrangements are being made for the continued operation of the magazine's banking and other financial affairs.

In the event of my imprisonment, and to save unnecessary wastage of money, no special notice of that fact will be sent to subscribers. Most readers in the United Kingdom will probably hear of my fate in the newspapers or by some other means. Any who do not, together with our overseas readers, who are less likely to hear the result of our trial by means of their local news sources, may assume that if they do not receive their copies of the August issue at the normally scheduled time this will be the reason. Please do not therefore bombard our office with enquiries as to why copies have not arrived. This notice should suffice to tell you!

Whatever the result of our coming trial, Mr. Morse and I are both determined that we shall not be stopped from continuing our fight against the forces of treason in our country. And I am determined that this magazine, which has remained in the fight for more than two decades, will not be silenced.

GUTTER JOURNALISM RULES O.K.

RICHARD MOLESWORTH puts the Press Council to the test and finds it wanting

ONE OF THE BIG MYTHS surrounding the gutter press of 'democracy' is that watching over that press there is an independent and impartial body instituted to ensure the maintenance of 'fair journalism', namely the Press Council. The Press Council, according to its defenders, acts as a referee to protect persons and groups from the baser manifestations of press reporting and adjudicates against newspapers when these are found to occur.

Nationalists have in fact tried several times to get the Press Council to use its powers in this regard against newspapers found to have engaged in grossly unethical reporting against Nationalist organisations, individuals and activities, but without success, finding that the PC, in the final analysis, is merely another wing of the press establishment. Typical is the case brought against certain papers in the West of England by the Secretary of the Cheltenham & Gloucester Branch of the British National Party, Richard Molesworth, following some grossly distorted headlines and reporting on a planned BNP rally in 1985. We here publish a summary of Mr. Molesworth's correspondence with the Council.

The Secretary
The Press Council
1 Salisbury Square
London E.C.4

Dear Sir,

With reference to articles relating to a proposed meeting of the British National Party, planned for August 31st in Bristol, we wish to lodge a complaint in the strongest possible terms about articles appearing in:-

- (1) The Bristol Journal (11th July 1985). Front page report by Karen Ellison.
- (2) Western Daily Press (July 16th 1985). Commentary under heading 'Searchlight'.
- (3) Bristol Evening Post (July 15th 1985). Front page article by Chris Hewett.

OFFENDING MATERIAL

The Bristol Journal

- (a) Use of the term 'Nazi' in large type in headline in reference to the BNP.
- (b) Reference in the first paragraph to the BNP as a "neo-nazi splinter group of the National Front".
- (c) Quotation from statement by Miss M. Ahmed: "...because these people, who believe in violence..." in reference to the BNP.
- (d) Reference in top paragraph of column 3 of article to description by Searchlight magazine of the BNP as "the nazi group".

POLICE TOLD OF VIOLENCE THREAT

Ban 'Nazi' rally call

By Chris Hewett

THE GUTTER PRESS AT ITS WORST

A CALL to ban a Right-wing British National Party meeting — which could lead to racial violence in Bristol was made today.

(e) Statement that "The British National Party...make no secret of their admiration of Adolf Hitler".

(f) Reference in the two closing paragraphs saying: "Witnesses claim the BNP was present at Liverpool-Juventus game handing out inflammatory leaflets".

(g) Statements that "violence erupted at the party's previous rallies at Welling...Leicester and Bradford".

Western Daily Press

(a) Statement under heading 'Searchling', evidently that of the Editor, that "Somerset must not allow these dangerous purveyors of hatred to gain even the tiniest footholds."

Bristol Evening Post

(a) Front-page headline in very bold type: "Ban 'Nazi' rally call".

(b) Statement in the article that Mr. Stephenson, President of the Bristol West Indian Parents' Association, described the 'National Party' (evidently meaning the British National Party) as a neo-nazi organisation and that he says: "Failure (to ban the meeting) will in our opinion wilfully expose citizens of all races to potential violence, racial abuse and intimidation."

COMPLAINTS

Bristol Journal and Bristol Evening Post

The repeated use of the terms 'nazi' and 'neo-nazi' is grossly misleading. These terms in no way describe our party's policies and

Ready for the men of hate

A RACIST group is said to be planning a recruitment drive in Somerset schools.

It intends to picket children as young as 11 outside school gates and distribute leaflets and other publicity material designed to warp young and impressionable minds.

Behind it all is the British National Party which has carried out similar campaigns in Devon and Cornwall.

It intends to send representatives to every school in the county. And every school must be ready for them.

Somerset must not allow these dangerous purveyors of hatred to gain even the tiniest of footholds.

The message to the British National Party must be loud and clear: You are not wanted here.

GUTTER JOURNALISM RULES O.K.

Far from the BNP making a practice of stirring up hatred, the use of these terms in this context renders these newspapers, as well as our party's opponents whose statements they quote, guilty of the very things they accuse us of doing — stirring up hatred (racial or otherwise) and inciting violence.

We would emphasise that a newspaper is not obliged to quote statements which are likely to have this effect. We are quite sure that no editor would feel obliged to quote statements which were likely to stir up hatred against Blacks, merely because those statements had been made by someone. On the other hand, these statements do seem to be intended to stir up hatred against a particular party and its supporters.

We take particular exception to the statement in The Bristol Journal that the British National Party "make no secret of their admiration of Adolf Hitler". The statement does not mention which aspects of Hitler's policy are admired. Hitler is said to have provided employment for six million unemployed Germans. This is surely something to be admired, especially in the light of Britain's current unemployment figures! On the other hand, our party does not admire acts of brutality which are, correctly or incorrectly, attributed to Hitler's regime, any more than we admire atrocities when attributed to Stalin's Russia.

Thus the same objections apply to this statement as apply to the use of 'nazi' or 'neo-nazi'; their main function, and I would suggest intention, is to stir up hatred against the BNP and its supporters.

With regard to complaint (c) against The Bristol Journal, our contention here is that the statement complained of is grossly defamatory and false. It is principally the enemies of the BNP who believe and deal in violence and intimidation.

With regard to complaint (f) against the same paper, I might draw your attention to the findings from the official enquiry into the Brussels football disaster, which said that the National Front and British National Party were not in any way to blame. Why no mention of this?

In the passage from The Bristol Journal referred to under complaint (g) the impression is given by the Editor (I would suggest intentionally) that our party was guilty of the violence at Welling, Leicester and Bradford referred to. In fact on each of these occasions the violence was started by our opponents. If you doubt this, you may ask the police in those areas for confirmation.

Western Daily Press

The statement made here by the Editor that the BNP are "dangerous purveyors of hatred" is grossly defamatory and false, as I have indicated elsewhere.

Bristol Evening Post

Again I must describe as grossly defamatory and false the statement attributed (without contradiction) to Mr. Stephenson implying that the BNP indulges in incitement to "violence, racial abuse and intimidation".

SUMMARY

To sum up, we claim that the treatment of the topic being dealt with by these three newspapers represents journalism of the most despicable and reprehensible kind, and we request that the respective editors be duly reprimanded and required to publish adequately prominent apologies and retractions as and wherever applicable.

Yours faithfully

R.D. MOLESWORTH

To this the Press Council made the following reply:-

Dear Mr. Molesworth,

Thank you for your letter of the 14th August 1985 regarding the Bristol Journal, Western Daily Press and Bristol Evening Post. These three complaints will be dealt with separately under the reference numbers W12508, W12509, W12510 respectively.

I enclose the Council's leaflet 'Guidance on Procedure for Complaints' which sets out what the Press Council does and how to use its services in making a complaint.

Before the investigation into these complaints may proceed I would be grateful if you would forward copies of the three articles concerned.

NEVILLE WOODHAM

pp. Miss Alexe Finlay
Assistant Secretary, PC

The copies requested were duly forwarded. In response this was the Press Council's reply:-

Dear Mr. Molesworth,

Thank you for your further letter of 18th August with enclosures regarding the Bristol Evening Post.

Following the Council's procedure, I have forwarded the correspondence you sent the Council to the editor who may take this opportunity to get in touch with you direct.

If the editor does not contact you within a reasonable time — say seven days — or if you are dissatisfied with his response and believe the matter warrants an investigation by the Council, you should write to the Director immediately, enclosing copies of all the letters you have written to or received from the newspaper and of any additional material you think may be helpful.

Your complaint will then be investigated with a view to submitting it to the Complaints Committee of the Council for consideration.

Yours sincerely

ALEXE FINLAY (Miss)

Assistant Secretary

Duplicate copies of the above letter were also sent to Mr. Molesworth concerning his complaints against the other two papers.

Mr. Molesworth then received a letter on behalf of the Western Daily Press, which went as follows:-

Dear Mr. Molesworth,

The Press Council has sent me your letter complaining about the Western Daily Press Searchlight column, in which you appear to object to the British National Party being called dangerous purveyors of hatred.

May I quote the BNP's Mr. Len Walker: "We stand for total repatriation of Blacks, whether they are of the first of fourth generation. It is wrong for black children to be in white schools."

It is this newspaper's belief that those remarks are offensive, racist and likely to bring about hatred in the minds of the young to whom they are addressed. These views were published in our opinion column, and we stand by them.

Yours sincerely

IAN BEALES

Editor

The following is an abridgement of Mr. Molesworth's comments on the above letter, sent to the Press Council:-

A letter on behalf of the Western Daily Press defends that paper's description of the British National Party as "dangerous purveyors of hatred" by quoting a statement made by the BNP's Mr. Len Walker (see copy of Editor's letter).

I cannot possibly see how advocacy of a policy of repatriation of Blacks can be construed as 'hatred', and in this respect may I draw your attention to copies of two publications supporting the BNP, namely British Nationalist and Spearhead (enclosed) in which it is regularly stated that, although these publications and the party oppose multi-racialism and support repatriation of non-Whites, it opposes race hatred, and I quote: "All those who oppose multi-racialism should attack the politicians who promote it, not the immigrants, who are merely its victims."

The second statement attributed to Mr. Walker reads: "It is wrong for black children to be in white schools." It is to me incredible that this statement should be selected as the best available evidence for the allegation that those who hold such a view are "purveyors of hatred."

On the contrary, it is quite evident that racial hatred is indeed engendered when Blacks and Whites are put, willy nilly, in the same schools together.

There follows a detailed exposition by Mr. Molesworth of evidence in support of the last-named statement.

At about the same time Mr. Molesworth also received a reply from the Bristol Journal, which read:-

Dear Sir,

The Press Council have sent us details of your complaint concerning the article we ran

on the front page of our publication on July 11th 1985.

Should you decide to pursue the matter, I am content to let the Council determine whether or not these complaints are justified. However, I do regret that in making your complaint, you chose to ignore the lengthy rights of reply we accorded Mr. Andrews and Mrs. Bennett (copies enclosed), and subsequent correspondence.

Hardly, I submit, the actions of a newspaper guilty of what you term "journalism of the most despicable and reprehensible kind."

Yours faithfully
DEREK GALLOP
Editor

Commenting to the Press Council on this letter, Mr. Molesworth said:-

Certainly we would agree that the rights of reply (per se) Granted to A. Andrews and T. Bennett do not represent reprehensible journalism. This in no way mitigates our remarks about the original article. That, by itself, represented incitement.

Furthermore, one wonders what proportion of those who read Bristol Journal's article, let alone the large front-page headlines, which could have been seen six yards away, also read the two referred-to letters inside.

Moreover, the possibility (though not certainty) that an editor will publish a letter of complaint clearly does not justify the printing of the original offensive material, which could conceivably result in acts of violence or other detrimental effects, even before any such 'right of reply' was taken up.

Another reason why such a right of reply cannot always compensate is that officers of the organisation about which offensive material has been printed may not necessarily have seen that offensive material in print, and therefore be prompted to write a letter of reply to the Editor. This would particularly apply when the newspaper, as in this case, is read mainly in Bristol, while the nearest party unit is based in Cheltenham.

A further source of propagation of offensive printed material is via outside handwritten placards displayed by newsagents or street vendors. Headlines may be repeated in this form, legible from a considerable distance, while there is not the slightest chance of letters of complaint, or editors' apologies, being displayed in like manner.

Mr. Molesworth sent these comments on the letters from the Western Daily Press and Bristol Journal with accompanying letters to the Press Council. In these letters he stated that no reply had been received from the Bristol Evening Post. There then followed an exchange of correspondence between Mr. Molesworth and the Press Council in which the latter attempted greatly to water down the strength of Mr. Molesworth's complaints against the three papers by shortening them and modifying them. Mr. Molesworth objected to this watering down in the first place but finally accepted a wording of the complaints by the Council when left with no alternative. These watered down complaints were then placed before the Council's Complaints Committee, which sat and considered them. In the outcome Mr. Molesworth was finally sent the following letter:-

Dear Mr. Molesworth,

The Complaints Committee of the Press Council, sitting under the chairmanship of Sir Selman Cowen, chairman of the Council, has carefully considered your complaint against the Evening Post of Bristol.

After taking full account of your comments the committee decided that you had failed to establish a case warranting adjudication by the Council. I have to tell you, therefore, that your complaint has been disallowed.

Yours sincerely
KENNETH MORGAN
Director

Identical letters were also sent to Mr. Molesworth in respect of his complaints against the Western Daily Press and Bristol Journal.

Thus ended the BNP Cheltenham & Gloucester Secretary's attempt to obtain from the Press Council a fair and responsible adjudication against the gutter journalism of the three papers in question. Perhaps the identity of the Chairman of the Press Council, setting itself up as it does as monitor over the ethics of the British Press, will provide a clue as to why there was never any chance of the BNP obtaining proper redress against the lying hate propaganda of the papers and their editors.

This little story should provide something of a further education for our readers on the real workings of the 'free press' in this country.

RUDOLF HESS: PRISONER OF VENGEANCE

The story of a man who made more sacrifices for world peace in our century than the rest of mankind put together, as told by COLIN JORDAN

THE PLANE sought refuge from its pursuers in the evening haze — for it was German, they were British, the date was May 10th 1941 and the war was 1½ years old. Escaping the 2 Spitfires, the Messerschmidt 110 continued its 900-mile flight, crossing the Northumberland coast, dipping dangerously low over fields and villages to avoid detection, its fuel, barely enough for the one-way trip, dwindling alarmingly. Entering Scotland and reaching the vicinity of its objective, the home of the Duke of Hamilton, the plane's pilot, all alone, made in the darkness his very first parachute descent.

The man was the Deputy Leader of Germany, Rudolf Hess. He had risked his life and staked his freedom in a feat of flying which Luftwaffe expert Udet had told Hitler was impossible. He did it, not to wreak some special destruction on Britain, but to bring peace between two brother nations who, together in alliance, could have assured the security and prosperity of the white peoples of this globe for many generations to come. History holds few, if any, more momentous occasions or more daring acts of benevolence. No-one deserves the Nobel Peace Prize more than this man.

Anglo-German accord within a European settlement had been a bedrock of belief with both Hitler and Hess throughout their political lives. Both were appalled when Britain declared war on Germany in September 1939, on the spurious pretext of an agreement to defend Poland against wholly justifiable German demands for the return of German territory. This pretext simply masked Britain's subjection to those sinister forces who were intent on destroying Germany and Britain in fratricidal war, and it was anyway shown to be pure humbug when later the Russians moved in on the eastern half of Poland and Britain did nothing.

HITLER'S PEACE PATH

Hess, as Hitler's Deputy, was no newcomer to moves for peace. At the very outset of his coming to power, Hitler, in the Reichstag on May 17th 1933, had proposed general disarmament. Despite no response, he had next proposed on October 14th of that year at least some limitations on armaments. Despite no response again, he had on May 21st 1935 again proposed limitations, including the restriction of bombing to actual battle zones as preparatory to banning all bombing. Despite yet again no response, he had on March 31st 1936 put forward a peace plan including limitations on bombing and shelling. Yet again there had been no response from Britain and the other democracies. Nevertheless, at the height of the Polish crisis Hitler, on August 24th 1939, had proposed an agreement which included a promise to help protect the British Empire. Britain, in the greatest act of folly in his history, had answered this with the commencement of a calamitous war which led to the ruin of that Empire.

Having quickly defeated the Polish stalking horse, Hitler, on October 6th 1939, had called for a peace conference, and on October 9th the German Government had said it would accept American mediation with Washington as the venue. 3 days later Britain had intimated rejection. Having next defeated France and caused the British Expeditionary Force to depart from the shores of that country, Hitler, accompanied by Hess, made in the Reichstag, on July 19th 1940 what he called "an appeal once more to reason and common sense in Great Britain," saying "I see no reason why this war should go on," and demanding no forfeitures from the foe for her defeat on the Continent. One hour later Sefton Delmer, in charge of German-language programmes for the BBC, had given the following answer, endorsed by the Government in Parliament: "Mr. Hitler...let me tell you what we here in Britain think of this appeal of yours...we hurl it right back at you, right in your evil-smelling teeth."

CHURCHILL WANTED WAR

Churchill, that catastrophic conjurer of patriotic emotions for alien interests and inimical ends, had by now become Prime Minister, thanks to the war he had so long worked for as his necessary theatre for fame. When, the month after Hitler's peace speech, he had found that 3 of the 6 members of his Cabinet were inclined to peace, he sought to scotch this untoward development by ordering an air raid on Berlin at a time when Hitler had ordered that British cities should not be bombed.

When informed in 1941 that Hess had come to Britain to make peace, this prime cause of the "blood, toil, tears and sweat" which his war cost the British people retorted that this arrival (of a truer friend of Britain than he ever was) would not interfere with his enjoyment of a film featuring the Marx Brothers.

Thus, instead of responding sensibly to Hess's mission, and thereby saving millions of lives, and preventing the seizure of half of Europe by Moscow, bewitched Britain, under the spell of the bloodthirsty drunkard of Downing Street, misdirected a magnificence of national spirit to the cause of killing as many of Hess's compatriots as possible, and destroying as much of their country as possible, to the enormous delight of the foul fraternity who behind the scenes pulled the strings of political puppetry.

HESS UNDER TREATMENT

From Scotland Hess was brought South, incarcerated briefly in the Tower of London, and then taken to Mytchett Place, a requisitioned mansion near Aldershot. There he was subjected to various forms of 'treatment' designed to extract information from him, and to mould him to the propaganda purposes of the Churchillian warmongers. This accounts for their allegations that he required 'psychiatric observation', as it does for Hess's faked loss of memory as a measure of self-protection against the interrogations, and his complaints that chemicals were being put in his food and drink; and it explains their subsequent depiction of him as 'deranged' when they failed to get what they wanted out of him.

As an example of the abuse of one who, if not accorded the courtesy of an ambassador of peace, at least deserved the rights of a prisoner of war under the Geneva Convention — which forbade the solitary confinement accorded to him, Hess was confronted with a faked copy of the Daily Telegraph of June 20th 1941 containing a report of an interview Hitler gave to a former US Ambassador in Belgium, doctored to give the impression that Hitler had spoken of Hess as a madman. The hope was that this forgery would turn Hess against Hitler, and cause him to give away information in retaliation.

Described in the Daily Telegraph of March 22nd 1971, this trick, which completely failed, was the bright idea of the same Sefton Delmer we have encountered earlier. He headed a special unit for the use of deceit in the cause of democracy, the arch-deceiver. In his memoirs, The Germans and I, he testified to the unlimited skulduggery practised by his band of 'truth-benders', as they were known.

Hess's son, Wolf Rudiger Hess, in his new book, My Father Rudolf Hess (£15.50 post-free UK, £16.00 abroad, from Gothic Ripples, Thorgarth, Greenhow Hill, Harrogate, N. Yorks HG3 5JQ) tells of another of Delmer's forged newspapers, this one reporting that Frau Hess had told the Berlin police that she had drugged her husband to put him under the influence of British hypnotists to cause him to come into British captivity. Delmer, having been a Fleet Street journalist, was well trained in the ways in which truth can be bent in the 'free press' of a democracy.

COMPLAINT TO THE KING

Such was the maltreatment of Hess that in June 1941 he tried unsuccessfully to commit suicide, and in November 1941 he wrote these words to King George VI: "I came to England banking on the fairness of the English people...Could I not expect all the more to be met by fairness, having come not as an enemy — especially as I came to England unarmoured, at the risk of my life, to try to end the hostility between our two peoples?"

Hess also composed a memorandum at that time, which, with prophetic insight, stated: "A victory for England would be a victory for the Bolsheviks. A victory of the Bolsheviks would mean sooner or later their advance into Germany and the rest of Europe...if England's desire to weaken Germany were fulfilled, the Bolshevik State would become the strongest military power on earth..."

These two items are culled from the papers of Lt. Col. A.J.B. Larcombe (disclosed in the Sunday Telegraph, December 13th 1981) who in 1945 escorted Hess to Nuremberg; for when, after 4 long years of further slaughter, Churchill's blood lust was finally satisfied in the infinite misery of Germany's unconditional surrender, Hess went home to Germany not as an honoured peacemaker, not as a released prisoner of war, but instead as an alleged criminal — victim of the vengeance which, under Churchill's V sign, was the accompaniment of democratic victory.

VENUE FOR VENGEANCE

Nuremberg was carefully chosen as the venue for this particular act of vengeance. Over the roofs of its medieval quarter Hitler's plane had been wont to descend on its arrival for the gigantic processions through the streets of the city of the exultant manhood of a Germany reborn. So, with true Old Testament spite, high explosive and incendiary bombs had been generously rained down on that architectural treasure house to destroy the setting for the great spectacles of National Socialism; and so now to Nuremberg Hess and the other captured German leaders were conveyed for a festival of vengeance masquerading as an exposition of justice, opening in November 1945 and extending a whole year till October 1946.

While outside the courtroom of the International Military Tribunal the gaping craters, the hillocks of rubble and the remnants of homes all testified for Hess against his accusers, inside the place he who had sought to save Europe from all this was charged and convicted (by those who had caused it) of the offences of crimes against peace, and conspiracy to commit such crimes, and was sentenced to imprisonment for life. Of the other 2 counts in the 4-count indictment against Hess, namely of war crimes and crimes against humanity, even that crooked caricature of a court had to stop short of conviction. Those proceedings at Nuremberg, which have been the sole basis for the caging of Hess for half a lifetime, were nothing less than a complete perversion of justice which, in reality, condemned not the accused but the accusers.

UNDER JEWISH MANAGEMENT

"It was the World Jewish Congress which had secured the holding of the Nuremberg Trials at which it had provided expert advice and much valuable evidence," boasted Congress spokesman Rabbi M. Perlzweig in the London Jewish Chronicle, December 16th 1949.

Members of Rabbi Perlzweig's triumphant tribe were abundant on the staff of the Nuremberg Tribunal and its associated agencies, ranging from Col. B.C. Andrus, in charge of the emaciated prisoners kept in unheated pens under the harshest conditions and with floodlights shining on them all night, to the hangman, John C. Woods, who, on a Jewish feast-day, killed with a slow-death-drop 11 of the 23 defendants, ensuring that, for example, Field Marshal Keitel took 24 minutes to die (Nuremberg: a Nation on Trial, by German historian Werner Maser). The bodies of the dead were then cremated at Munich, birth-place of National Socialism, and the ashes were dumped in the River Isar.

Hess and the others sentenced to imprisonment were then taken to the execution room and made to clean up the mess made by the deliberately prolonged murder of their colleagues.

The charges against Hess and his associates were inventions without precedent, unknown in German and other European penal codes, incompatible with the theory and usage of international law, and applied retroactively and thus contrary to all normal legal practice.

They were additionally invalid because applied with perverted partiality by this victors' tribunal whose 8 judges included, along with 2 each from Britain, France and the USA, 2 from the Soviet Union, a country which had been expelled from the League of Nations for its aggression against Finland in 1939 — precisely the kind of offence for which Hess was convicted — and which, furthermore, put more people in concentration camps and exterminated more opponents than any other country in modern times. One of the Soviet pair was none other than I Nikitchenko, who had been in charge of Stalin's show trials.

ONE-SIDED 'JUSTICE'

This Allied tribunal, however, had concern only for the alleged wrongdoings of the Germans, and none whatsoever for any comparable conduct by its own side. Thus, for example, in relation to Hess's conviction no cognisance was taken of the British invasions of Iceland in 1940 and Syria and Iran in 1941, or Britain's plan to invade Norway in 1940.

Commented Lt. Col. Liddell-Hart in his History of the Second World War (pages 58/59): "One of the most questionable points of the Nuremberg Trials was that the planning and execution of aggression against Norway was put among the major charges against the Germans... Such a course was one of the most palpable cases of hypocrisy in history."

The truth is that Germany got to know of British plans to invade Norway and thence Sweden in order, among other things, to stop the vital supply of Swedish iron ore to the German armament industry, and the Germans got into Norway to prevent this just hours ahead of the British. British Cabinet and Foreign Office papers, newly released to the Public Record Office, were shown by the Daily Telegraph of January 1st 1941 to disclose that, as far back as December 1939, Britain and France plotted to send regular troops, in the guise of volunteers to aid Finland against Russian aggression, but with the real aim of stopping the Swedish supplies of ore to Germany. This particular violation of neutrality was prevented by the Swedish refusal to signify sanction for the transit of the bogus 'defenders of Finland' across Swedish territory, but it did not stop Churchill, then First Lord of the Admiralty, continuing to scheme to the same end, and to dispatch an invasion force to Norway which was beaten to its destination by the German counter-move.

ALLIED ATROCITIES CONDONED

While Hess was charged unsuccessfully, and others successfully, with crimes of war and crimes against humanity, the atrocities of the Allies were treated as inadmissible as evidence by their judicial hirelings at Nuremberg. Yet former tank major Desmond Flower, MC, then Deputy Chairman of publishers Cassell & Co., was quoted in the Sunday Dispatch of London on April 15th 1956 as stating that during the invasion of Europe British soldiers shot prisoners of war and civilians, and looted and wantonly destroyed civilian property; and more recently Max Hastings in his Operation Overlord recorded that the shooting of German prisoners was a common Allied practice.

The defence was barred from mentioning such shootings, and from introducing the British Army Manual of Irregular Warfare, which advocated the same activity the defendants were charged with and punished for. Similarly, the defence was barred from citing the deliberate mass slaughter of German civilians at Dresden, Hamburg and elsewhere in Germany by the British and American bombing raids. Summarising the disqualifying double-standard demonstrated by the tribunal, even Robert H. Jackson, the chief American prosecutor, admitted in a letter to the then President Truman: "The Allies have done or are doing the very same things we are prosecuting the Germans for." (Justice at Nuremberg, Robert E. Conot, page 68).

HANDICAPPED DEFENCE

Not only were the purview and composition of the tribunal a travesty of justice, so too were its ways and means. The London Agreement which set it up laid down that its constitutionality could not be challenged. Its Article 13 decreed that "The Tribunal shall not be bound by technical rules of evidence" — so that it could dispense with the normal safeguards against injustice. Article 21 of the same document decreed that "The Tribunal shall not require proof of facts of common knowledge" — so that it could treat as unquestionable contentions advantageous to the prosecution.

Defence staff had to work in a dimly lit room under constant surveillance by American military police, faced continual obstruction in collecting evidence, and were not allowed to see prosecution material before its submission. Werner Maser, above cited, showed that among other measures designed to pervert justice prosecution witnesses were beaten until they gave the desired 'evidence', many defence witnesses were not allowed to appear, agreements to advise the defence of topics to be examined the next day were not kept, the defence was not allowed to have copies of many prosecution documents of evidence, defence documents had to be sifted by the prosecution before they could be submitted, and many of these documents were confiscated or stolen.

Hess was not allowed to conduct his own defence, despite provision in the tribunal's charter, and, when he sought to exercise his right to make a closing statement, he was cut short with the ruling that he must be brief.

PROSECUTION FORGERIES

Falsified material was used by the prosecution to secure the convictions of Hess and the others. The private file of the chief American prosecutor revealed that newsreels shown as evidence were doctored by his staff (David Irving: The War Path).

Allied prosecution exhibit USSR-378 was the book by Hermann Rauschning, Hitler Speaks, purporting to be Hitler's most intimate views and plans as revealed through a great many private conversations with the author, including the intention to incorporate Africa, South America and eventually the USA in a global empire, and the statement "Do I propose to exterminate entire nationalities? Yes, it will add up to that..." Swiss historian Wolfgang Heinal, after 5 years' investigation, has revealed that this almost unknown provincial official only met Hitler 4 times and never alone, and the material is pure fiction. The German magazine Der Spiegel, September 7th 1985, called it "a falsification, an historical distortion from the first to the last page..."

Another falsification was prosecution exhibit 386-PS, the Hossbach Protocol, used to prove that Hitler planned aggressive war, and thus that Hess, as his Deputy, was culpably a party to it. West Berlin lawyer, Dankwart Kluge, has shown in a book published in 1980 that the Allied authorities got hold of a copy someone else made of a note made by a Col. Hossbach of the proceedings of a conference with Hitler that he and others attended in 1937, and substantially altered it. In his eventual memoirs Hossbach admitted that Hitler did not outline any war plan at the conference, and British historian A.J.P. Taylor (An Old Man's Diary, 1984), rejecting the Nuremberg exhibit as a forgery, said: "No evidence that Hitler planned an aggressive war has ever been produced." Thus Hess's conviction was counterfeit.

HESS'S BIRTHDAY

40 years after the Nuremberg festival of vengeance, the pale light of the early morning brought to sight the bare furnishings — bed, table and chair — of a small barred room in Spandau Prison, West Berlin, where on April 26th 1986 Rudolf Hess reached his 92nd birthday, and at 6 a.m. the guard obliged him to rise. There were no birthday cards from the public to greet the old man, for these, Christmas cards and all other mail are denied him, apart from a single letter per week to and from his family.

He may have a visit from his wife or son for a single hour each month, but needs to remember the rule to keep 2 full yards away from his loved one. Never must he touch his visitor. With that visitor will also attend the British, French, American and Russian prison commandants, and, for the benefit of the last-named, every word uttered will be loudly translated into Russian, so the prisoner must always remember to speak slowly.

Hess spent his birthday trying to read the 4 newspapers he is allowed daily, and one of the 4 books he is allowed monthly: a difficult matter despite the combination of spectacles and a magnifying glass because he is now blind in one eye and has a detached retina in the other one which is inoperable because of his age, and increasingly reduces his sight; so he must make the most of his remaining time before total darkness is added to his imprisonment. His reading matter must exclude anything relating to his case, his past or National Socialist Germany in general, and any notes he makes are taken away and destroyed.

For him to watch television, a concession now allowed him but similarly censored, he needs to apply a week in advance, specifying the desired programme. News bulletins and programmes of contemporary history are not allowed.

Weather permitting — and despite oedema of the legs and a weakness in the thigh bones which causes his knee joints to give way so that he falls and cannot get up unaided — he could go down to shuffle round the exercise ground, where he has already walked the equivalent of 3 times round the world, or to tend the garden plot which gives him pleasure. While so doing he could cast a glance in the direction of the prison basement where already his coffin stands waiting for him, destined for immediate cremation, his ashes to be denied to his family, and disposed of secretly.

SPANDAU'S SECRECY

The 4 custodial powers maintain to this day a secrecy concerning Hess's prison conditions and the state of his health which can only be seen as a cloak for culpability. Thus the British Foreign Office replied on March 5th 1985: "Mr. Jordan asks five specific questions in his letter. I regret that I cannot supply him with specific answers on the conditions of Hess's imprisonment. The Spandau Prison regulations are confidential. The consent of the Four Powers, including the Russians, would be needed for their publication. The same applies to details of Hess's medical condition."

When on Hess's 92nd birthday this writer asked the British Foreign Secretary if he would mark the occasion by asking the other 3 powers to end this secrecy — and at the same time to agree to end the restrictions on Hess's mail, reading and television — the reply was: "It is not possible, in Hess's own interests, to give details of Allied proposals." Thus secrecy concerning secrecy is the name of their game.

A fortnight following our last look at Spandau's solitary prisoner, it was May 10th 1986, and the 45th anniversary of his flight to Britain. Even after more than 16,000 days of imprisonment he can still sharply remember his feeling as the plane left German soil at Augsburg around 5.45 p.m. When his feet next touched ground a few hours later in Lanarkshire, it was to start nearly half a century of captivity.

LETTER TO THATCHER

On the same anniversary in 1986 this writer yet again tackled the British Government regarding the release of Rudolf Hess, writing the following letter to Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, which so far has only received bare acknowledgement:-

"I write to you this day, the 10th May, the anniversary of Rudolf Hess's flight to Britain in 1941, and thus the completion of 45 years of his imprisonment, to ask you if you will mark this occasion by making another approach now to the Soviet Union to agree to the release of this very old and

HESS IN SPANDAU

A lonely figure, he trudges around the exercise yard, where he has already walked a distance equal to 3 times around the world partly blind prisoner whose 92nd birthday took place a fortnight ago.

"I appreciate that the British Government maintains that it has made a number of such approaches over the past years without success, but I do put it to you that Britain has a special responsibility in the matter in that Hess first lost his liberty in consequence of his endeavour to make peace between our country and his through a singularly courageous feat of flying. I therefore submit that it will be shameful for Britain, if she fails now, while there is still time, to urge in the strongest possible way the Soviet Union — which she contends is the only one of the 4 custodial powers objecting — to agree to Hess's immediate release; and instead wait and allow the problem to be removed by his death which cannot be far off. "In conjunction with this, I wish here to ask you to reconsider the British Government's present decision to keep its papers on Rudolf Hess secret till the year 2017, and instead to authorise public access to those papers as a gesture of good faith in accord with its claim to favour Hess's release; since otherwise the maintenance of this secrecy can but give rise to the belief that the Government has something damaging to hide by this secrecy."

BRITAIN'S EXCUSES

The British Government maintains the pose that, while favouring the release of Hess, it cannot during one of the months

when, in rotation with the other powers, it has control of Spandau, either free him, or in lieu place him in some other and more comfortable custody, because this would be to break an agreement with the Russians which would be immoral, and also inexpedient in jeopardising to our detriment other agreements with them. This argument is unconvincing. Firstly, it is morally preferable to break a wrongful agreement than to continue it — and Hess's continued imprisonment at his age and after so many years on account of a wrongful conviction at Nuremberg is beyond question monstrously wrongful — while the Russians, on account of the number of agreements they have broken at their convenience, including, according to the Washington Enquirer (September 21st 1984), 17 arms control commitments between 1958 and 1983, are hardly entitled to invoke integrity in their favour.

Secondly, the Russians, being by doctrine and practice devoted to keeping agreements only if and as long as they suit their purposes, would not be likely to let their huffing and puffing over the release of Hess without their approval ultimately interfere with their disposition concerning other agreements.

One is therefore led by this reasoning to view the British Government's decision to keep its Hess papers secret till 2017 — and thus till after not only Hess is dead, but almost everyone else who was an adult at the time of his flight — as a powerful clue to false pretences on its part. Indeed this writer believes, not only that those papers are likely to show something of the potentiality for peace still prevailing in Britain in 1941 as a response to Hess's mission, which Churchill and his cronies were intent on suppressing in their lust for war, but also the fact that, just as Hitler only narrowly forestalled by hours Churchill's plan to violate Scandinavian neutrality in 1940, so too a year later he only narrowly forestalled by days Stalin's plan to launch a surprise attack on Germany in violation of the pact between them.

HESS SILENCED

Did not Hess — aware from German Intelligence of the Russian preparations to attack then proceeding, necessitating the swift German counter-attack then being planned — time his flight when he did in the knowledge that the great struggle for Europe against Bolshevism was about to begin, a struggle in which Britain should not figure on the side of the latter?

Did not Churchill realise that this was his chance to destroy, with the help of Stalin's hordes, the hated champion of European Civilisation, and thus to realise his consuming ambition to strut across the pages of history as a conquering warlord? Had he not already conspired with Stalin to this end in his approaches starting in 1940, just as he had conspired with the Czechs and taken their bribes in 1938 to help bring the war about (David Irving: The War Path, page 136), and had conspired with Roosevelt to bring America into it, as coding clerk Tyler Kent discovered — his later being silenced by imprisonment?

Did not Churchill determine to silence Hess by confinement, and have not successive British Governments kept the Hess papers secret, and in league with their wartime allies kept Hess imprisoned, precisely because this prisoner of peace knows too much and could tell too much, destroying their fictions of rectitude, and thereby exposing their crime in detaining him?

Are they not, one and all, despite their pretences, determined to keep Hess caged in Spandau until the day death silences him for ever — because, if freed and free to talk, he would as a result be acquitted by all fair opinion, while Churchill would be condemned and the conception of his 'just' war against Germany would collapse? Democracy's misrulers could not withstand the damage thus to the very foundations of their essential edifice of lies.

HIS VICTORY

Within the prison walls of Spandau the subject of our speculation will tonight have his spectacles removed at 10 p.m. lest his fumbling fingers beneath the bedclothes manage to break the glass, and use it to end his torment prematurely. Throughout the drab procession of days and nights across the dreary decades his sustaining strength has been the satisfaction of knowing that, despite everything, has beaten them because he has kept faith. As against all uncertainties concerning him stands the certainty of his steadfastness. Had he been a mere fellow traveller, like technocrat Speer, or some lesser believer or weaker character, he could perhaps have bought his release by a penitential recantation, plus an undertaking to be silent on what his captors desire to be kept secret. Democracy and its cousin Communism would dearly love to release and parade a beaten and repentant Hess, as a token of their 'compassion', and have him recite all their proclaimed evils of National Socialism.

But they are doomed to disappointment. He who uttered the following words of defiance to the judicial vultures of Nuremberg amid the ruins of Aryan renaissance will never give in, and, in his triumph of the will, holds high a torch of honour to the remembrance, redemption and revival of that renaissance:-

"It has been my privilege to serve for many years under the greatest son to whom my people has given birth in its thousand years of history... If I were to begin all over again, I would act just as I have acted, even if I knew that in the end I would meet a fiery death at the stake."

The following are extracts from an article 'When Mrs. Thatcher sings of Jerusalem' by Hugo Young, which appeared in The Guardian shortly after the Prime Minister's recent trip to Israel. We reprint them without comment.

It is appropriate that Mrs. Thatcher should have been the first British prime minister to visit Israel. She is the most firmly pro-Zionist Conservative leader since Churchill. She is, in some senses, an honorary Jew herself.

But in Finchley any novice politician becomes aware of the Jewish vote. When Mrs. Thatcher first won in 1959, it constituted almost 20 per cent of the electorate.

WHAT MAKES MAGGIE TICK?

Twenty-five years courting of the synagogues has given the local MP an acute consciousness of where her interest lies, but also a long lesson in the Jewish virtues, which clearly resemble her own.

Successful Jews are among the people Mrs. Thatcher has found most useful to her. She has not ennobled quite so many as Harold Wilson, hitherto Israel's greatest friend among British prime ministers, and they do not have the dubious business pedigree of some of Wilson's coterie. Lord Young, the Employment Secretary, and his brother Stuart, Chairman of the BBC, are typical.

When she wept at Yad Vashem on Sunday, it was the unfeigned reaction of a highly emotional friend of the Jewish people.

And from them she has drawn her own newest friend, Chief Rabbi Sir Immanuel Jacobovits. The Chief Rabbi would appear for a politician who is in constant need of gurus, to be the latest in the line. Who knows, he could be to the second Thatcher administration what Sir Laurens van der Post was to the first: private counsellor, supplier of spiritual uplift, the therapist beyond the walls.

Certainly Mrs. Thatcher takes everything he says very seriously, seeking out his speeches and asking to borrow his images.

THE ISRAELITES ARE NOT JEWS

Capt. KENNETH McKILLIAM replies to the Klassen article in our February issue

I HAVE READ Ben Klassen's article with much interest. However, he, like most Christian ministers, has been the victim of the propaganda of those very people he criticises.

It has been insinuated into our minds for some considerable time now that all the Jews are Israelites and all Israelites are Jews. This is not so; all Israelites are not Jews and only some Jews are Israelites. The word 'Jew' was first used in the 18th century as a translation of the Greek word Ioudaios, meaning an inhabitant of Judea, a division of the Roman province of Syria to the North of which was Galilee. The Herodians had forbidden Judeans to marry Galileans. Jesus Christ and 11 of his disciples were Galileans; the only Judean was Judas Iscariot, who betrayed Christ to the Sanhedrin. The modern term 'Jew' is used for political purposes to distinguish an international mixed breed of people from the rest of humanity. (Read Facts are Facts by Benjamin Freedman).

In order to understand the White Race, one of the 4 species of mankind, one must go back to its beginnings. According to researchers in archeology and ancient history, the white Adamic or Aryan (noble) race began in the Tarim Basin in the mountains of Central Asia. This area was once extremely fertile and the River Tarim ends in the Lake Lop Nor. It is now a desert area but with vast amounts of water beneath the surface.

From this area members of the White Race went out to establish the civilisations of the Nile and Tigris-Euphrates valleys. In the fourth millenium BC there was a cosmic disturbance: a comet or large star came within the sphere of the earth's gravitation and the gravitational pull drew the earth off its axis. The earth's crust or mantle began to fold upwards over the soft magna below, and so on the tops of high mountains we find sea shells and the skeletal remains of sea creatures. Great tides were caused which beat against the newly formed uplands. The earth split to form rift valleys in which the magna bubbled and boiled. Great masses of cool ice descended on parts of the earth, instantly freezing and burying the great mammoths now being found in Alaska and Siberia with their flesh as fresh as the day the catastrophe happened and the green herbage still in their mouths and stomachs. Indeed the flesh is being fed today to sledge dogs (Read Ages in Chaos and World in Collision by E. Velikovskiy, Victor Gollancz 1951, and The Biblical Flood and the Ice Epoch by geographer and scientist Donald W. Patten, MA, Pacific Meridien Publishing Co. 1966).

Mankind now began to erect great stone circles, such as Stonehenge, with alignments on Arcturus, the Great Bear, so as to be able to discern the first wobble of the earth and predict future catastrophes. In Isaiah 47:13 we read: "Let now the astrologers, the stargazers, the monthly prognosticators stand up and save thee from these things that shall come upon thee. Behold they shall be as stubble; the fire shall burn them; they shall not deliver themselves from the power of the flame." And in Job 38:31-33 it is written: "Canst thou bind the sweet influence of the Pliades, or loose the bands of Orion? Canst thou bring forth Mazzaroth (the bearded star — a comet) in his season? Or canst thou guide Arcturus with his sons? Knowest thou the ordinances of heaven? Canst thou set forth the dominion thereof in the earth?"

This was the great flood of Noah. The next centre of the White Race was in the area between Lake Van (Turkey), Lake Urmia (Iran) and Lake Sevan (Soviet Armenia) and was called by the Assyrians Urartu (Ararat). It is below the Caucasus Mountains through which groups and clans passed on to move North and West following the retreating ice as the earth warmed up again.

CAUCASIAN

The White Race now gained the term Caucasian. The race rebuilt the neolithic city of Catal Huyuk in Southern Turkey (Read Who was Adam? Rev. Prebendary K. Victor Pearce, BSc., Dip. Anthr. (Oxford) ALCD, CF, published by Paternoster Press). From this area a clan moved down the Tigris-Euphrates Valley and settled among the Sumerians, who had moved down from the North from the area of the Oxus and the Jaxartes in the 4th millenium. Their main town was Eridu.

To the North-West of Eridu was the town of Ur, the centre of the worship of the moon god. Terah, a nonconformist, worshipped the one creator god, Zeus Pittar, Diis Pittar (father god, which later became Jupiter). With his two sons, Abram and Nahor, he left the disintegrating culture of the Sumerian Akkadians and moved North to Harran. A third son, Haran, had died in Ur.

According to patriarchal custom, the rulers of the clan only married within the family. Abram married his half-sister Sarai. Nahor married his niece Milkah, daughter of the deceased Haran. Terah died in Harran. Abram adopted Haran's son Lot. Abram was another nonconformist and he took his people away from the corrupting influence of the sexually loose-living, idol-worshipping Babylonians and went down into the Wild West of the day, Canaan, then sparsely populated and inhabited by mixed-breed Canaanites, with their towns of Sodom, Gomorrah and Jericho. Abram had no sons of his own and so Sarai gave him her Egyptian handmaid Hagar to wife. She bore him a son, Ishmail, the progenitor of the Arabs. The Jews have taught us that Abram was a Jew. Well, if Abram was a Jew, then Ishmail was also a Jew and therefore all the Arabs are Jews — so why are they fighting each other?

Ishmael was not accepted as the future leader of the clan but Abram had a pure-blooded son by Sarai, Isaac — "In Isaac shall thy seed be called". Abram made absolutely certain that Isaac married within the family. He sent his steward, Elieazar of Damascus, to the household of his brother Nahor and the steward arranged for Isaac to marry Rebekah, the daughter of Bethuel, the son of Nahor by Milkah. Isaac and Rebecca had two sons, Esau and Jacob. Esau was rejected for he married two Hittite women and then, to try and make it up with his parents, he married Mahalath, the daughter of Ishmael. When this had no effect he married Aholibamah, the Horite. Esau was the progenitor of the Edomites, Idumeans, who were determined to destroy the descendants of Jacob (Israel). Jacob married Leah and Rachel, the daughters of his mother's brother Laban. Jacob had twelve sons from whom were formed the twelve tribes of the Israelites.

LAWS AGAINST RACE-MIXING

These people were governed by the ancient laws of the Patriarchs, which were reinstated by Moses. The second of these laws warns against worshipping the idols of other races and the race-mixing which would follow from this. The seventh law forbids race-mixing; adultery means the mixing of races, thus bringing into the world bastards. The tenth law covers illicit sexual activities between Israelites. The leaders of the present-day churches have changed the meaning of the laws from what was originally intended. All through their history the Israelites were warned against race-mixing and the perils which would be its outcome. They were taught to honour their fathers and mothers and that their days would be long in the land that the Lord God gave them. When they broke these laws the land was taken from them and became filled with mixed breeds of lawless people, decadent and ungovernable — as is happening in Britain today.

That these people were a white race can be seen from the scriptures. Adam (or Awdawm) means to be rosy, to show blood in the face, to blush. Have you ever seen a Negro blush? King David was said to be "fairer than the children of men" (Psalm 45:2); "My love is white and ruddy, the chiefest among ten thousand" (Song of Solomon 5:10). Moses in Acts 7:20 is said to be exceeding fair. See also I Samuel 16:12 and 17:42. When Holman Hunt wanted a model for his painting 'Behold I stand at the door and knock' he went to Palestine. He was told there that the true Israelites were those with fair hair and blue eyes; hence his picture in St. Pauls Cathedral.

The Phoenecians, the Pa Hanock (House of Enoch) whose symbol was the phoenix were of the same race as Abram. They were tall men with red hair and blue or green eyes and were part of the great Chaldean civilisation which emigrated westward and became a seafaring people who, together with the Israelite tribe of Dan, traded in tin, lead and silver from the Britannic Islands, the tin for mixing with the copper from Cyprus (Cupressos-copper) to make bronze. The Phoenecians were the originators of the alphabet which was perfected by the Greeks and Romans. They established colonies in North Africa and the Britannic Isles. Their great trading post was Masilla (Marseilles). Near Newton House in Aberdeenshire there is the Newton Stone with inscriptions in Phoenecian and Oggan. It was erected in 400 BC (Read The Phoenecian origins of the Britons, Scots and Anglo-Saxons by Professor L.A. Waddell).

In the time of King Solomon (10th century BC) the Israelites, a white race, had been constantly warned against interbreeding with the mixed breeds about them; indeed they were forbidden to have anything to do with them, for they were regarded as able to contaminate the Israelite people with the Babylonian religion and culture. On the death of King Solomon, a race-mixer, the nation divided. The ten Northern tribes established the Kingdom of Israel under their own appointed King, Jeroboam; the Southern Kingdom of Judah accepted Rehoboam of the Royal House of David as their King.

WEAKENING OF THE RACE

The people of the Northern Kingdom began to inter-marry with the Canaanites and to adopt their religion and culture. Family and national life were destroyed and the Israelites became weakened and a prey to the Assyrians. The Assyrians attacked in three great raids from 772 BC to 722 BC, led respectively by Tiglath Pilezar (Pul), Shalmanezar V and Sargon II, and Sennacherib. There had been previous clashes between Assyria and Israel. Sir Austen Layard excavated a monolith of Shalmanezar III (859-825 BC) recording his victory over Ahab, the Israelite King, near Hamath at Qarqar on the Orontes River in 853 BC and on the Black Obelisk (now in the British Museum) which records the victory over Ahab's son Jehu at Kerkh in 841 BC. Jehu is described as the son of Ghomri (Omri). The Israelites were called by the Assyrians the Beth Khumri (House of Omri).

The Assyrians decided to establish a buffer state against their northern enemy Urartu and to populate it with conquered people, notably Israelites. In 745 BC Tiglath Pilezar (Pul) carried away seven of the tribes of Israel (see 1 Chron. 5:25-26); 2 Kings 15:19; Assyrian Discoveries by S. Smith, page 28; Missing Links Discovered in Assyrian Tablets by Capt. E. Raymond; Iran by Professor R. Ghirshman).

DEPORTATIONS

Tiglath Pilezar was followed by Shalmanezar V in 722 BC, who had a very short reign. He was followed by Sargon II (722-705 BC). On the Nimrod Prism in the British Museum it is stated that Sargon deported 27,290 captives from Samaria and settled them in the towns of the Medes. Sargon was assassinated by Sennacherib in 705 BC. The Taylor Prism, also in the British Museum, dug up by Sir Austen Layard, states that Sennacherib deported 200,150 people from the walled cities of Judah and transported them to the Assyrian Empire. He was fond of flaying people alive or raising them up with stakes through their bodies. Most of these Israelites were settled in Halh, Habor and Gozan on the borders of the enemy state of Urartu. The Assyrians began to refer to these people as the Gamira (or Gimera), who became Cimmerians. Another body of Israelites was called the Iskuza. Professor Ghirshman, on page 97 of Iran, states that the Cimmerians are known in the annals as the Gimmerai (Khumri) and the Ishkuzai, and in these names they appear on Assyrian clay tablets, that these people were closely related and spoke almost identical languages.

With the weakening of the Assyrian and Babylonian Empires, the Khumri-Cimmerians were able to move away. One section went North through the Caucasus Mountains and settled in the Crimea. By far the larger part went westwards into Asia Minor along the Southern shores of the Black Sea (2 Estras 13:40-45). Flavius Josephus in Antiquities of the Jews states in Book XI, Chapter V, Verse 2: "Wherefore there are but two tribes in Asia and Europe subject to the Romans, while the ten tribes are beyond Euphrates till now, and are an immense multitude, and not to be estimated by numbers."

The Cimmerians then began to migrate across Europe westwards. One branch migrated to the Low Countries and Jutland and became known as the Cimbri. A great body moved up the Danube Valley passing through Hungary and Austria into Southern Germany and France and established the Hallstadt culture. They were known to the Greeks as Celts and to the Romans as Gauls (See Chapter 9 of Missing Links Discovered in Assyrian Tablets and Ancient Europe by Stuart Piggott). Another culture was formed within the Hallstadt culture called the La Tene, about Lake Neuchatel in Switzerland.

The Cimmerians were pushed westwards by the Ishkuzi, who had been known as the House of Isaac (see Amos 7:9 & 16). One part of the Ishkuzai went through the Caucasus Mountains in about 580 BC and became the Sacasene and the Scyths; the other and larger part went round East of the Caspian Sea and were called the Sakka and Sacae by the Persians, then from 600 to 120 BC were called the Massagetae (the mass of the Getae). These Sakka were said to be a blond people who carried the Aryan language to India and then mixed their blood with the dark-skinned Dravidians, setting up a caste system (read The Passing of the Great Race by Madison Grant, page 252).

The Behistun Rock on the caravan route from Babylon to Ecbatana, 1,700 feet high, has an inscription placed there by Darius the Great (515 BC). The writing is in Babylonian, Elamite and Persian. It reveals that the ten tribes of the Israelites were under the control of Darius. From the royal correspondence of the Assyrian Empire it is evident that the Ishkuzai, the Sakka, the Scythians and the Cimmerians and the Gamira were all Israelites.

GERMANS

The Samartians, a Mongolian people from the East, pushed the Scythians out of the Russian steppes and the latter went away westwards. The Samartians adopted the dress and customs of the Scythians and the Romans called the real Scyths Germans to distinguish them from the Samartians. It is always the case that an uncivilised people take on the language and culture of a superior race and then attempt to take over that race. We see this going on in certain parts of the world today. The word 'German' is a Celtic one and means genuine, a brother or relation. The Scythians became the Sakka, the Sakasuna, the Saxons. One group of them were called the Engels from their totem, the bull. The bull was the symbol of the Israelite tribe of Ephraim.

The remainder of the tribes of Judah and Benjamin which formed the Kingdom of Judah were taken away captive by Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon in 586 BC and settled in Babylon. Now began the establishment of the great Gentile empires of Babylon, Persia, Greece and Rome.

The Babylonian Empire was destroyed by the Medes and the Persians from the North (see Iran by Professor Ghirshman). In the Book of Esther we read that a plot was hatched by the Edomites in the Persian Empire to slaughter all the Judahite captives. Queen Esther, wife of the Persian ruler Ahazertus (Artaxerxes) succeeded in circumventing this plot (Esther 8:17) and many of the people became 'Jews' through fear of the Judahites. We read in Esther 9:30 that there were 120 provinces in the Persian Empire at that time and the empire stretched from Greece to the borders of India and from the Caucasus Mountains to the Indian Ocean. It included Egypt, Mesopotamia, Assyria, Babylon, Afghanistan and part of Turkestan. Intermarriage took place between the Judahites and the new 'Jews' and their blood-stream was mixed with that of other races. With many adherents of the old Babylonian religion becoming 'Jews' there grew up a contamination of Israelite law and culture and the formation of the Babylonian Talmud known as the Tradition of the Elders as practised by the Scribes and Pharisees.

In 536 BC the Persian ruler Cyrus issued a decree allowing the Judahite captives to return to Palestine to rebuild the temple and city walls. In 537 BC, under the leadership of Zerubbabel, more than 40,000 Judahites left Babylon to return to the promised land, accompanied by a high Persian official appointed to see that the royal decree was carried out (Iran, page 132). However, Judaea did not remain undisturbed from rebellion in the empire. In Iran it is stated: "The legitimist party, believing the moment propitious for placing on the throne a descendant of the House of David, perhaps Zerubbabel himself, started to intrigue. The high Persian official in control of the country stopped the rebuilding of the temple. An embassy was sent to Darius, who established the right of the Jewish people to rebuild its sanctuary in accordance with the edict of Cyrus. As the texts of the decree had been found in the royal archives in Ecbatana, Darius ordered it to be put into effect. This did not prevent him from taking severe measures against the Davidites and installing a high priest as the head of the community, thus creating a theocratic state. The temple was completed in 515 BC and the road to Egypt was secured."

Continuing the policy of Cyrus and Darius, Artaxerxes gave Ezra permission to return to Jerusalem with 1,500 of the Jewish families formally exiled, but the quarrels that arose between them and those of their co-religionists who had never left Palestine compelled the King to intervene, and even to send Nehemiah, his cup-bearer and confidential adviser, to settle the differences in the country. Under the guidance of Ezra, who remained loyal to the Persian throne, the Jewish nation was able to establish itself.

After 537 BC, when the Judahites and their Babylonian wives and half-breed children had arrived back in Palestine (2 Chron. 36:23 and Iran) Nehemiah and Ezra were aghast and angry at the way the Judahites had become mixed with alien blood and they tried to get the people to rid themselves of their foreign wives and half-breed children, but to little avail (Ezra 9:1-4 and 10:1-14; Nehemiah 13:1-3 and 23:31). They had brought back with them the Babylonian Talmud — the Tradition of the Elders.

Rabbi Morris Kertzer states that the Talmud consists of 63 books of legal, ethical and historical writings of the ancient rabbis. It was edited 5 centuries before the birth of Jesus.

CHRISTIANITY NOT ORIGINATING IN JUDAISM

Rabbi Steven Wise, an eminent Jewish scholar, states: "The return from Babylon, and the adoption of the Babylonian Talmud, marks the end of Hebrewism and the beginning of Judaism." Thus the Christian religion did not develop in any way from Judaism but was the natural continuation of the faith of ancient Israel.

The Lord Jesus Christ had this to say about the Talmud, the Tradition of the Elders: "Why do ye also transgress the commandment of God by your tradition?" (Matthew 15:3); and: "Howbeit in vain do they worship me, teaching for doctrine the commandments of men" (Mark 7:7); "...and making the words of God of none effect through your tradition" (Mark 7:13).

Dr. Theodor Reik, president of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, wrote a book entitled Pagan Rites in Judaism — Sex Initiation, Mooncult, Tattooing, Mutilation and Other Primitive Rites. From this book we gain the impression that Judaism is a spiritual outlook and practice which arose among the Jews after the Babylonian captivity.

The Encyclopedia of Jewish Religion tells us that "The character of latter-day Judaism was determined by...emergence of a strong mystical trend (Kabbalah and Zohar)." Zohar is described as "a mixture of theosophical theology, mystical psychology, anthropology, myth and poetry." According to Webster's Dictionary, mystic appertains to the occult, designating alchemy, magic, astrology, and the arts and practices involving the use of divination, incantation and magical formulas. These were the heathen practices of ancient Babylon.

Long after the return from Babylon, the Maccabean leader, John Hyrcanus, in 119 BC forced the Edomites, the descendants of Esau, to accept the religion of the Pharisees and the Babylonian Talmud. These Edomites began to interbreed with the Judahites to form the Judeans, the Jews. At the time of Jesus Christ the Romans had installed the Edomite Duke, Herod, as King of Judea, and even the high priest, Joseph Ben Ha Qui Yafa (Caiaphas) was an Edomite. John 11:53 states: "Then from that day they (the Jews) took counsel together for to put him (Jesus) to death. Jesus (a Galileean) therefore walked no more openly among the Jews."

A long time later, in the 8th century AD a nation of Mongol Turks, the Khazars, accepted Phariseism (Judaism) and adopted the Babylonian Talmud and, although not Semites and with no Israelite blood, drove out the sorcerers (shamans) and phallic worshippers and made their covenant with the Almighty and claimed to be the Chosen Race, destined to rule the world and all mankind. Their religion had been basically devil worship. (Read The Thirteenth Tribe by Arthur Koestler and Facts are Facts, the Truth about the Khazars by Benjamin Freedman).

So many lies and deceits are being propagated by our press (largely under Khazar Jew control) and cinema and television (similarly controlled) to insinuate into our minds the corrupt sexual teaching of the Babylonian Talmud that the real truth is being suppressed. Books have been removed from bookshops and library shelves; lectures and reports removed from the archives by Khazar Jews and their dupes and agents in order to destroy all knowledge of the true history and identity of the White Race, so that it can be forced to interbreed with the Blacks, Browns and Yellows especially brought over here for that purpose. For the White Race — and particularly the North-Western European section of it, is the only race the Mongol Turk Khazars really fear; it stands in the way of their hoped-for government and rule of the world. The universities of Oxford, Cambridge, Yale and Harvard began as Christian establishments; they have now come under the influence of Khazar Jews.

THOUGHT FOR THE MONTH

Pathetically, the British talked for a while of their special relationship with the United States — even of "partnership." They would not see that partnership is only possible between those more or less equal in power or wealth. A Britain stripped of its Empire could only be a client-kingdom. It could no more be a partner of the United States than Athens — or perhaps Macedon — could be a partner of Rome. Modern Britain, sheltering under the supposed willingness of the United States to undertake a nuclear war in defence of what Yalta has left of Europe, has sent each Prime Minister, cap-in-hand, to Washington since World War II.

SIR: It is interesting to note, in the midst of all the present weeping over terrorism, that no mention has been made of the original Middle East terrorists, the Irgun Zvai Leumi and the Stern Gang and their affiliates, who put bombs through the letter box of the British Colonial Office and elsewhere in this country, who tortured and slaughtered British soldiers and policemen who were only trying to keep the peace between the Palestinian Arabs and the Jewish immigrants, who tortured, raped and slaughtered the Arab population of Palestine to drive them out of the land they had inhabited for nearly 2,000 years, who murdered the British High Commissioner of Egypt, Lord Moyne.

The Zionist-controlled governments of Britain and the United States have consistently refused to give any justice to the Palestinian Arabs and so the latter have been driven to adopt terrorism. If the governments of the USA, USSR and Britain had not handed Arab lands over to Mongol Turks pretending to be Israelites, there would be no Arab terrorism today.

The governments of today are full of hypocrites pretending to be statesmen and the churches are full of equally revolting hypocrites pretending to be Christians. Look at the way these people, while condemning one terrorism, support another — the World Council of Churches sponsored terrorists to destroy the white Government of what was Rhodesia.

Dr. E.L. Hilton wrote in his book The Peace Conference (pages 423 and 433): "Henceforth the world will be governed by the Anglo-Saxons who are, in turn, swayed by their Jewish elements."

Now we have the terrorists of the African National Congress, established by the Jew Joe Slovo, using violence to coerce the Negro people of South Africa to destroy white rule in that country — aided of course by the anti-white stiffs in the House of Commons.

Yet the only kind of terrorism that the governments of Britain and the US seem to want to take action against is Arab terrorism!

SIR: May I comment on 'View from the mountain' by Stanley Clayton-Garnett (June issue).

Mr. Clayton-Garnett implies in the article that the Norman Conquest was a good thing for this country, whereas I would submit it was one of the greatest disasters. However, before arguing this I would like to point out some errors of historical fact contained in the article.

Firstly, the Anglo-Dane, Harold II Godwinson was not the son of Edward the Confessor but his son-in-law. Secondly, Henry II, "the first Angevin King", was a Plantagenet, so the Plantagenet period began in 1154 and not with the accession of Edward I in 1272, as stated. Also, it did not end with the execution of Richard II in 1399 but with the death of Richard III of York at the Battle of Bosworth in 1485.

The European printing press (as distinct from the Chinese one) was invented in the 15th century and not in the 16th, and the commercial crisis of 1825 was not the 'South Sea Bubble'; that was in 1720.

With regard to the ill effects of the Norman Conquest, firstly let me say that it would never have succeeded had it not been for the disunity of the Saxon nobles. Thanks to their vacillation, William was able to crush resistance piecemeal, and this he proceeded to do with ruthless indiscriminate. He followed up this slaughter by the installation of the foreign feudal system (Surely there is a lesson here for Nationalists today!).

The new system, with its armed mercenaries in stone castles, was an ideal method of keeping the natives in order, and of course our native leaders were replaced by an alien monarchy and an alien aristocracy, involved in foreign wars for which the unfortunate English had to pay. It took 150 years for the nation to survive this, and almost 300 to outlive the alien official language. Then it took more than 41 centuries before we were able to throw off the alien ecclesiastical authority the Normans imposed upon us.

It is true that the Normans were basically of the same race as the Saxons and Danes and that they too became in due course English, but perhaps the worst outcome of the Conquest was that this country became severed from its natural relationship to Scandinavia and North Germany and instead became involved in the disputes of Continental Europe.

Mr. Clayton-Garnett does mention one evil that followed on from the events of 1066, that of usury, regrettably still with us and now incomparably worse. The Jews were certainly unpopular, but as a footnote it is interesting that another people who came here as traders shortly after the Conquest were regarded with respect, admiration and affection. These were a folk from the Baltic lands whom the English called Easterlings. Later this was shortened to Sterlings. We paid them two great and lasting compliments: one for their fair trading methods, and this we did by naming our currency after them. The other was the adoption of the adjective 'sterling', which was also derived from the same source.

RACE AND REASON (Carleton Putnam) £4.00 (40p). A plain, unemotional account of the race issue that has been an invaluable contribution to the debate ever since it was first published. 1961 (rep. 1977), 125pp.

STATE SECRETS (Count Leon de Poncins) £3.50 (59p). A study of some little known state documents that throw much light on recent history. 1975, 191pp.

CENSORED HISTORY (Eric Butler) £1.50 (18p). An examination of some of the facts of recent history that have not found their way into textbooks and newspapers. 1974, 48pp.

THE CONTROVERSY OF ZION (Douglas Reed) £9.00 (£1.41). A best-seller in nationalist circles ever since its publication. A study of Jewish-Gentile relations since biblical times, packed with little-known and long-suppressed facts. 1979, 580pp.

THE NAMELESS WAR (Capt. A.H.M. Ramsay) £2.50 (34p). An outline of the secret history of the events leading up to the Second World War, including information on previous upheavals. The author had the honour of being imprisoned without trial for four years during the war, despite his status as a member of parliament. Originally, published 1952, 128pp.

NATURE'S ETERNAL RELIGION (Ben Klassen) £6.70 (98p). A controversial and hard-hitting book outlining the author's ideal of a new religion based on the right to survival of the white race. The author in presenting his ideas on this matter makes it plain who represents the threat to white survival. 1973, 508pp.

THE WHITE MAN'S BIBLE (Ben Klassen) £6.70 (98p). A companion volume to the same author's Nature's Eternal Religion in which he expands his concept of Creativity as the future religion of the white race. 1981, 451pp.

EXPANDING CREATIVITY (Ben Klassen) £4.20 (52p). A selection of the best articles written by the author in his paper Racial Loyalty. 1985, 255pp.

BUILDING A WHITER AND BRIGHTER WORLD (Ben Klassen) £4.20 (52p). A follow-on from Expanding Creativity, containing a further selection of articles from later issues of Racial Loyalty. 1985, 270pp.

We should perhaps make it plain that the above books by Ben Klassen are strongly critical of the Christian religion and that the many Christians we are glad to number among our customers will find much in these books to disagree.

THE SIX MILLION RECONSIDERED (W. Grimstad) £2.50 (66p). Examines not only the 'Holocaust' but other topics involved in the Jewish Question, including the exploitation of the 'anti-semitic' smear. 1977, 170pp.

NUREMBERG AND OTHER WAR CRIMES TRIALS: A NEW LOOK (Richard Harwood) 75p (34p). A scholarly exposure of this cynical travesty of justice. 1978, 68pp.

RACIAL KINSHIP (H.B. Isherwood) 30p (12p). A further well-argued presentation of the case for 'racism' by the author of Race and Politics. 1974, 36pp.

ARCHITECTS OF CONSPIRACY (William P. Hoar) £15.00 (£1.41). One of the most serious and detailed accounts of financial manipulation ever published. From the time of the American Revolution to the present, we are given names, dates and facts. The material originally appeared in the journal American Opinion. 1984, 361pp.

THE TURNER DIARIES (Andrew MacDonald) £1.50 (34p). A powerful novel describing the fight-back of the white man in America. A futuristic fantasy that might not be so fantastic after all. 1980, 211pp.

CONSPIRACY OR DEGENERACY? (Prof. Revilo P. Oliver) £4.00 (52p). Text of lecture by the author, a brilliant scholar, to New England rally for God, Family and Country in 1966. 76pp.

AMERICA'S DECLINE: THE EDUCATION OF A CONSERVATIVE (Prof. Revilo P. Oliver) £3.50 (46p). A collection of articles and reviews on various aspects of the collapse of modern civilisation. 1981, 375pp.

POPULISM AND ELITISM (Prof. Revilo P. Oliver) £4.00 (52p). A study of the purpose and function of political power and the elements which wield it in the present century. 1982, 101pp.

THE ENEMY OF EUROPE (Francis Parker Yockey & Prof. Revilo P. Oliver) £6.00 (75p). Thought-provoking essay on the powers set on destroying the European peoples, written by Yockey, accompanied by a review of the same work by Prof. Oliver. 1981, 240pp.

I.Q. AND RACIAL DIFFERENCES (Prof. Henry Garrett) £1.00 (12p). Clear and concise summary of the evidence of racial differences in intelligence and their significance in education. 1980, 57pp.

THE UNHOLY ALLIANCE (Patrick Walsh) £2.25 (56p). A former Canadian undercover police officer exposes the dirty tricks employed by Zionists and Communists to misdirect and destroy patriotic groups and to suppress free enquiry. 1986, 34pp.

IS THERE INTELLIGENT LIFE ON EARTH (Prof. Revilo P. Oliver) £4.00 (50p). An entertaining survey of modern fallacies and their charlatan promoters. 1983, 94pp.

THE USES OF RELIGION (Prof. Revilo P. Oliver) £1.00 (12p). Examines the value of religion as a socially cohesive force. 1982, 36pp.

THE GREAT HOLOCAUST TRIAL (Michael A. Hoffman II) £4.00 (50p). Extremely comprehensive and well written report on the infamous trial of Ernst Zundel in Canada, also covered in The Zundel Trial and Free Speech. 1985, 95pp.

B.N.P. LEAFLETS

Fed up with the party politicians? Reprint of a popular old Nationalist leaflet, brought up to date. Deals with British National Party policies on the main national issues.

If only we were black... Leaflet produced by the Young Nationalists, the BNP youth division, and aimed primarily at Britain's young people. Contrasts the way young Whites have been left on the scrapheap with the specially favoured treatment given to Britain's coloured racial minorities.

Have you been thrown on the scrapheap by foreign imports? This leaflet deals with unemployment and explains in simple terms how millions of British jobs are being destroyed by the international free trade policies of successive governments. A brief and concise argument for economic nationalism.

Violent crime in Britain: the horrifying truth. Deals with muggings, rapes and other violent attacks on defenceless people, giving examples of specific cases. Calls for much tougher treatment of violent criminals.

Handsworth, September 9th 1985 — where next? Up-to-date leaflet produced immediately following the Handsworth race riot and calling for repatriation.

This is OUR country. Leaflet questioning people on their views about race riots and multi-racialism and telling them that if they answer affirmatively their place is with the British National Party. Features vivid picture of riot area in flames.

Are you concerned about Scotland's future? Leaflet specially produced for distribution in Scotland. Outlines BNP policies on main issues of interest to Scots.

Bradford's future — part of Yorkshire or part of Asia? Special leaflet for distribution in the racially troubled Bradford area.

These leaflets cost £4.50 per 1,000 with postage costs at £2.23 for 1,000, £2.65 for 2,000 and £3.10 for 3,000. Orders with cash to PO Box 446, London SE23 2LS.

More big publicity in Scotland

OUR OPPONENTS North of the Border just cannot get used to the idea that British Nationalism has a big appeal in Scotland, and is gaining ground there possibly faster than in many parts of the South. BNP activities and growth in the region have excited sometimes quite hysterical reaction from the local media.

The latest manifestation of this is a big 7-page special feature on 'racism' in Scotland printed in the Glasgow Evening Times, a paper claiming a circulation of 600,000 — extremely big for one read almost entirely in Scotland. The feature was printed last month and contained the screaming headline "Racism: our hidden problem".

Needless to say, the 7 pages concerned were not devoted in any way to a serious examination of racial issues, let alone to any fair exposition of the 'racist' argument. It was almost entirely given up to shock-horror-gasp scare stories of 'racist incidents' — all of course by white Scots against racial minority groups and not at all the reverse. Inside information we have from our Scottish contacts tells us that in fact there are growing numbers of attacks by coloured gangs there upon Whites, usually of the most defenceless kind such as old ladies. The Evening Times, however, was not interested in these and a reading of it would lead to the impression that no such incidents ever occurred!

On right: One of the hysterical headlines in the Evening Times special feature on 'racism' in Scotland. The BNP was given big prominence in this report.

The equivalent of one page of the feature was given up to the Scottish BNP and in particular to Glasgow Organiser Eric Brand, who was referred to as the "disciple of hate." Very cunningly and deceitfully, a large picture of Mr. Brand was placed, not on the page reporting his and his party's activities and views, but on another page directly beside a report listing cases of racial attacks, abuse and harassment. Of course, we know that the mass media North of the Border is under the control of just the same people as South of it, and we expect this kind of lying and distorted reporting.

Nevertheless, the Evening Times feature, like a recent TV broadcast similarly slanted, meant massive publicity for the BNP in Scotland and was an indication of how seriously the party is nowadays being taken there.

The BNP will be holding a major rally in Scotland on the nearest Saturday to St. Andrew's Day, namely November 29th. This promises to be a really exciting event. Parties from England will be travelling up on the day. If you want to go, start saving now!

SUPPORT THESE FUNDS!

THERE ARE THREE important funds currently being operated by the British National Party, all of which vitally need support in the immediate future. These are:

GENERAL ELECTION FUND

The BNP aims to contest a minimum of 20 seats in the next General Election with a full back-up campaign that will cost at least £1,000 per seat — plus, if possible, 30 more seats so as to qualify the party for broadcasting time. In every area local funds are being launched for this purpose but we need in addition a national fund to supplement and, if necessary, underwrite these local funds. Please make cheques out to: British National Party General Election Fund.

HEADQUARTERS FUND

The BNP hopes this year to open a headquarters office in the London area staffed by a full-time office manager. We need money to finance this vital project. Some has already been raised but much more is required. Please make cheques out to: British National Party Headquarters Fund.

LEGAL DEFENCE FUND

The Editors of Spearhead and its allied publication British Nationalist are this month appearing in court on 'race hate' charges. Money is still needed to pay for their defence and, possibly, fines in the event of their being convicted. Please make cheques out to British National Party Legal Defence Fund.

All monies should be sent to: PO Box 446, London SE23 2LS.

BRITISH NATIONALIST

British Nationalist is a tabloid published in support of the British National Party, normally on a monthly basis. Sample copies will be sent on receipt of 24p (covering p&p). Subscription for 12 issues is £3.45 (British Isles) or £4.00 (overseas surface mail). Bulk rates are as follows:-

Cheques/postal orders to British Nationalist, PO Box 446, London SE23 2LS. Please keep orders and enquiries concerning British Nationalist totally separate from other correspondence in order avoid confusion and delay.

IN THIS MAGAZINE there occur from time to time articles and reports which reflect unfavourably on some sections of the racial minorities in Britain, such as facts about crime, rioting, etc. These facts, and any opinions that are expressed in connection with them, are intended to persuade our readers of the failure of multi-racialism, not to encourage anyone to express hatred against members of racial minority groups. We oppose this hatred because it is entirely counter-productive and diverts attention from the real issue, which is that native British Whites and coloured immigrants should be SEPARATED — in the interests of both. There are a number of members of racial minorities who agree with us in this view, and we welcome their co-operation in achieving our common goal, which is peaceful and humane repatriation or resettlement of racial minorities in countries overseas.

We are fully aware, when we make reference to anti-social behaviour by racial minority members, that there is much anti-social behaviour also by native Whites, for instance football hooliganism, which is a mainly white phenomenon. When this anti-social behaviour by Whites occurs, we condemn it as much as we condemn similar behaviour by coloureds. Just as we feel it legitimate, however, to point out that football hooliganism is a form of behaviour for which Whites are mainly responsible, so we also maintain it to be legitimate, when racial minorities are implicated in certain forms of anti-social or criminal behaviour out of proportion to their numbers, to report this frankly and to discuss its implications for Britain's future.

In conclusion, we urge all those who feel angered by the results of the multi-racial experiment not to vent their anger upon innocent members of racial minorities, but to join with us in taking lawful political action to oppose the politicians who have created the problem.

SACKED — JUST FOR BEING A NATIONALIST

LEWISHAM BOROUGH COUNCIL, one of London's notoriously left-wing municipal bodies, last month carried out a typically vicious piece of victimisation against one of its long-standing employees. Malcolm Skeggs, employed by the Council as a librarian for 24 years without a blemish on his character, was given the sack. The reason? Mr. Skeggs is a member of the British National Party and the Manager of its book section, the BNP Book Service.

The sacking is believed to have been brought about by pressure from NALGO trade union. It was strongly opposed by the chief executive of the Council, who wrote a 30-page report testifying in Mr. Skeggs' defence and citing his excellent record as a Council employee. He had done nothing whatever to warrant dismissal but was simply on the Council's blacklist as a 'known racist'.

Lewisham Council, however, are not going to get away with it that easily. The latest news is that a widespread strike in support of Mr. Skeggs is threatened by his co-workers. Said Mr. John Collins, Lewisham branch secretary of NUPE: "The mood among our members is very angry. I believe

BNP leadership: contingency plan

This is to inform all British National Party members that, in the event of my going to prison as a result of pending race charges, RICHARD EDMONDS has been appointed Acting Leader of the party for the duration of my absence. As such, he will have full executive powers in accordance with our Constitution. Please give him your fullest loyalty and co-operation.

industrial action is a very real possibility."

Mr. Skeggs will be appealing against his dismissal in an industrial court. In the meantime he is just one more patriot out of a job because of his political convictions. How lucky we are to live in 'free democratic' Britain!

David Owens released on bail

DAVID OWENS, Leeds Organiser of the British National Party, has been released from prison on bail pending an appeal against his conviction at Leeds Crown Court for distributing material liable to cause 'race hatred', i.e. material opposing the coloured invasion of Britain.

Mr. Owens had served one month of a two-month sentence on this charge. His appeal is not expected to come to court for several months. In the meantime he has lost his job as a result of his conviction and imprisonment, this being an especially bad blow in a high unemployment area, where it will be difficult to find alternative work. Mr. Owens has a wife and one small child to support.

TYPESETTER & ORDINARY FUNDS

This last month has again seen a disappointing response to the Typesetter Fund appeal, only £38.00 being raised. This has, however, been to some extent compensated for by the good level of contributions to the ordinary fund, the latter enabling us to transfer back to the Typesetter Fund some of the money originally borrowed therefrom.

Last month we again had a mechanical problem with the type-setting machine, this necessitating the calling out of a mechanic and our having to pay the expensive call-out fee. This has set us back £63.00. We have therefore had to upgrade our target figure for the Typesetter Fund to £2,135.00. Last month's contributions bring the total raised to £1,692, thus leaving £443 still to be raised.

We hope our readers will contribute generously this month to both funds. All contributions should be sent to: PO Box 446, London SE23 2LS. Would anyone requiring a receipt for a donation of less than £10 please send SAE.

THE HIDDEN FACTS BEHIND RATE DEMANDS

DONALD NEALE shows how the house-owner is in bondage to the usurers

IN THE FURORE OVER RATES, the critical element is being obscured and overlooked. That is the level of local government debt and the burden of debt charges.

It may come as a shock to readers in Edinburgh and Lothian to learn how much of their rates simply vanish into the financial system to pay for loans which banks create out of nothing in the first place.

Local government finances are inevitably complicated but, simply put, the relationship between rate income and debt charges is as shown:-

Year	Outstanding debt £m.	Debt charges £m.	Total rate income £m.	Percentage of district rate
EDINBURGH DISTRICT COUNCIL
1981-82	317	41	29	141.4
1982-83	335	42	32	131.3
1983-84	316	38	37	102.7
LOTHIAN REGIONAL COUNCIL
1981-82	321	47	213	22.5
1982-83	346	47	193	24.8
1983-84	372	48	167	28.7

These figures are not disclosed within the 'information' leaflets circulated with the rates demand notices, although there is obviously a case that they should be. I am indebted to officials within the respective Finance Departments for their help and guidance in extracting them. The position with other district and regional authorities may well be comparable.

Lest incredulity affect readers who imagine their rates finance the district, it should be pointed out that, for example in 1983-84, only 29.4 per-cent of the district's total income came from ratepayers, just enough to pay the debt charges in fact! The balance came mainly from government grants (30 per-cent) and rents, fees, charges, etc. (36 per-cent).

It is bad enough that so much of ratepayers' earned income goes on debt charges instead of on services. Businessmen and public service workers can no doubt work out for themselves what better use they could make of such funds. But what is much worse is that they are paying back real money to the banking system, the original source of the loans, in return for financial credits generated out of nothing. Least the veracity of that statement be disputed, I quote but two authorities from many:-

"Banks act as creators of money." (Professor Alan Day in The Economics of Money).

"Banks create credit. It is a mistake to suppose that bank credit is created to any important extent by the payment of money into the banks." (Encyclopaedia Britannica under 'Banking and Credit', current edition).

There is absolutely no valid reason why the banks should enjoy a monopoly of credit creation when the sole raison d'être for it resides in society's physical capacity to produce goods and services to realise it, i.e.

to make it real. While a very substantial proportion of that capacity lies unused in the form of unemployed human skills and productive machinery of all kinds, the arbitrary cuts in housing, education, health and social services are unnecessary and intolerable. Your graphic reports and editorial about the appalling state of housing in Scotland epitomise the anti-social nature of the oppressive financial system.

However the rate burden is shifted around, no real relief is possible until there is much wider appreciation of the nature of money and the origins of public debt. The suggested poll tax, for example, would merely replace one form of unfair taxation with another. The gross loan debt of UK local authorities outstanding in 1982 (latest figures available) was no less than £41,607 millions and the annual debt charge was £4,334 millions. For a population of some 55 million, that is roughly £750 of debt per capita and £80 per capita per annum in debt charges.

This article was first written as a letter to The Scotsman newspaper in March 1985, and then reprinted in On Target, 26 Meadow Lane, Sudbury, Suffolk CO10 6TD, to which publication we are indebted for bringing it to our attention.

Ponderable quote

Part of the decline of a ruling class is its inability to recognise its enemies, when it does not actually prefer them to its friends.
